

IN THE EUPHORIA OF BEAUTY

The Image here represent an epitome of beauty constantly fawned upon, catered to, approached and presented with numerous offers and attention sought by her admirers. This sets up a powerful self image and expectations for the best. No wonder, she is the center for attention and the power of positive thinking is at work as one can see from the graphical representation of the emergence of different color dabs radiating across her body, signifying her unending fragrance of beauty that stimulates the sexual attention of the clustered butterflies (various admirers) hovering around her head as a result of her sexual intelligence.

The splattered colors created by the butterflies down her pelvic (torso) typifies the public attention she receives daily from various onlookers, as a result of the strong vigor her sexuality carries, coupled with the emblazoned artistic tattoos on her skin. Furthermore, her skin imprinted with all pattern of intricate tattoos reveals the creative mind behind her prowess.

She also maintained a straight face showing her confidence and boldness both in character and expression due to the endless attention she has received over time. Therefore, she cherishes her look and plays them to the hilt.

Her beauty is equally protected and covered with a hallmark of endorsement to safeguard her from beauty mismanagement and misuse that could emanate from environmental alteration. By this, her beauty remains untouched and pure to source out for. Her beauty is simply the aplomb and those lucky enough to have it are the equivalence of genetic lottery winners that gain such public attention and affection from their admirers.

Similarly, women's beauty can be likened to a flower that periodically blossoms under a good agent of environmental response (breeze and sunlight), which when pollinated by the aid of the fragrance sent to the butterflies, suffices its purpose. More so, beauty is an asset, just like physical prowess, charisma, brains or emotional intelligence. The point with any of these gifts is in the way that is being utilized. Although, psychologists believe that it doesn't define you as a person. But, it is an asset to be used judiciously and meticulously to harness its value. It is just like a small integral part of who you are, but speaks in high volume.

In short, outward look of a graphical image speaks in a louder volume than its psychological view when describing a beauty.

Kehinde Olatosh