An Exhibition will be held concurrently with the Conference. The coffee break and lunch areas will be located adjacent to the booths. Thanks to exhibitors from all over the world, attendees will have a complete overview of new findings in the field of Metabolomics & Systems Biology.

About Kyoto

Kyoto, the former capital city of Japan is considered the heart and soul of traditional Japan. Located in west-central Honshu, in the picturesque valley of the Kamo River with surrounding mountains, it is one of the most historic and attractive of the world's cities. Kyoto is Japan's third largest city and also one its oldest. It was originally founded as Heian in 794, and had its golden age during the court's heyday from 794 to 1185. The city's history can be appreciated in regions like Asakusa, and in many brilliant museums, historic temples and gardens.

Kyoto has the leading metropolitan economy in the world and is a major international finance center. It houses the headquarters of several of the world's largest investment banks and insurance companies, and serves as a hub for Japan's transportation, publishing, electronics and broadcasting industries.

Kyoto is dedicated to preserving Japan's oldest traditions, yet it is also a dynamic, contemporary city. Modern conveniences are readily available, making Kyoto a perfect destination for visitors looking to explore Japan's past without sacrificing the comforts of today. Known as a national dining mecca, Kyoto proudly offers traditional Japanese cuisines. Today, it offers a curious choice of shopping, entertainment, museums, galleries, shrines and temples for its visitors. It is a city of a dozen different characters; therefore visitors can pretty much choose their Tokyo based on whether they want frenzied and ear-splitting or serene zen-like calm; spiralling skyscrapers or tiny veiled backstreet reliquaries; the elastic and neon of the love inns or the tatami mat simplicity of traditional Ryokans. Among Japan's many assets, it is one of the most prized, comparable only to the world's most dazzling places.
