AGENDA
Title: A Neuroscience-based Blueprint for the Modern Integrated Addiction and Mental Health Treatment System.

R. Andrew Chambers, MD is Associate Professor of Psychiatry at the Indiana University (IU) School of Medicine in Indianapolis. Andy is a graduate of Centre College (1991), Duke University School of Medicine (1996), and Yale University Psychiatry Residency and Fellowship Programs in Neuroscience (2002). He graduated from the Addiction Psychiatry Training Program at IU in 2012, and is now the Director. Andy’s basic, clinical and neuro-computational research has been supported by grants from NARSAD, the American Psychiatric Association, National Institutes on Drug Abuse, Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, and the Veterans Administration. Andy’s research on the neurobiological and developmental basis of addiction vulnerability in mental illness has recently been translated into a new textbook of addiction psychiatry clinical care and professional training.

Title: On The Nexus Of Chronic Pain, Posttraumatic Stress, And Alexithymia

Dr. Lankster has 20 years of healthcare experience, 14 years of mental health experience, and 3 years of licensure as a clinical psychologist. She graduated from the American School of Professional Psychology and has undergraduate degrees in psychology and sociology from the University of West Alabama. She has published literature on trauma, CBT, cultural issues, and more. Dr. Lankster is also a peer reviewer for the National Institute of Justice and the Journal of Rural Mental Health. Currently, she specializes in and researches issues surrounding community and mass trauma, rural mental health, culture related issues, and child therapy.

Title: Automated Neurofeedback Brain-training as a Primary Addictions Intervention

Dr. Don began his career in mental health as a US Navy Substance Abuse Program manager. With over two decades in the field as a private practitioner, university professor, and innovator, he brings his understanding of psycho-physiology to bear on treatment modalities that directly address the underlying brain-rhythms that drive nearly all mental health disorders. Dr. Don is a full-time professor at National University, teaching addictions, psychology, and human behavior courses. He has recently published several articles articulating the broader application of Automated Neurofeedback Brain-Training as a primary mental health intervention. He has “brain-trained” hundreds of individuals under psychiatric/psychological care with outstanding results.
