

Healthcare as such is experiencing tremendous changes and there is a technological hype affecting practically all branches and fields of modern day patient care.

Healthcare 2020 will address with key-note presentations as well as discussion sessions these advances and their present role as well as future perspectives affecting the management and care of patients and the daily work of the professionals dedicated to them.

It is also the objective of this important event and multidisciplinary meeting to evaluate and highlight the need to analyze critically how technology is conditioning to great extent the direction medicine is taking, how it is influencing standards of care and treatment and if there true substantial benefits for our patients. What is and will remain of the "human touch" and how can we both advance but safeguard this fundamental, essential and unique aspect so needed in healthcare in all its facets.

Stockholm is a beautiful and amazing city and setting for such a relevant up-front meeting and we all cordially invite you to actively attend as well as contribute to shaping healthcare. Looking forward to welcoming you in Sweden.

Prof. Dr. Walter Bini FMH FRCS(US) FWAMS

