

Welcome Message

5th International Conference on Materials Science & Technology

Aman Ullah

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the organizing committee, it is my pleasure to invite you to attend 5th International Conference on Materials Science & Technology (MST). We particularly encourage and look forward to welcoming young researchers, students, academics, and industry professionals from around the globe to join, share and be part of the innovative programs at this event. MST 2019 would be a fascinating event with opportunity for students, academics, researchers and industries to come together and discuss the latest trends and scientific breakthroughs pertinent to the wider field of material science and technology.

The Conference will be held during April 18-19, 2019 at Vancouver, Canada.

In this conference, our main objectives are to encourage sharing and promotion of excellence in research and education in the material science and technology field through organization of a variety of themes and workshops related to materials during the conference. This would offer opportunities for academics, students and industries to increase the active participation within the emerging materials field. There will be opportunities for industries to sponsor excellent technical program and an opportunity for all to spend a pleasant time at one of the most beautiful cities of the world (Vancouver).

Looking forward to welcoming you in Vancouver

Best wishes,

Aman Ullah

Associate Professor,
Utilization of Lipids - Polymers/Materials Chemistry Group
Department of Agricultural, Food & Nutritional Science
University of Alberta